THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AT BOSTON
YEARBOOK PRESENTS

THE BEACON

THE BEST OF THE CLASS OF '88

EDITOR'S NOTE

Dear Graduates,

This year is coming to a close, and with this, a number of students will receive a diploma from U. Mass., Boston. This diploma is not all they will receive.

Throughout the time you have spent here at U. Mass., you have experienced things that in no way can be signified by a diploma. U. Mass. is a unique school. It contains within it's walls things which few schools possess. The wide array of students allows one to come in contact with many people different from themselves. Every single person here has experienced life in a different way. We have students with husbands, wives, and children of their own. We have students from other countries. We have students from different states, different cities. We have students with different backgrounds and beliefs. When you enter U. Mass. you are open to all these differences, and throughout the time spent here, you will undoubtedly realize them.

U. Mass. equips you with an excellent education in school and in life. When you leave here, and throughout the rest of your life, you not only have a diploma, but you have innumerable, unique experiences from which to draw from. All these are invaluable, and you may not even realize this yet.

Don't be afraid to use what you have learned here, and don't be afraid to learn more. Your opportunities are endless, as long as you use what you know, and believe in yourself. Congratulations and Good Luck.

COMMENCEMENT

CONVOCATION DAY

On Wednesday, September 23, 1987, Convocation Day was held on the Plaza. The purpose of the ceremony was to kick off the academic year by giving students and faculty a chance to come together for a multitude of activities.

Chancellor Corrigan presided over the ceremony, which began with an academic procession, including members of the Student Senate, and the Student Trustee, Colleen Lopes. Also, students and faculty alike had the opportunity to meet Betty Diener, the new Provost and Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs, who delivered the keynote address.

After the ceremony, a picnic lunch was served to students and faculty, giving everyone a chance to mingle, while listening to the U. Mass. Jazz Ensemble.

Also, amidst the Convocation Day festivities, there were tables set up by R.S.O.'s for the purpose of informing students about themselves, and what they represent. Each of the academic departments held their own open house as well.

All in all, Convocation Day was a huge success. A good time was had by all who attended. It proved very beneficial for familiarizing students with all the U. Mass. has to offer both academically and socially.

THE PROGRAM BOARD PRESENTS

This year the Program Board sponsored a presentation titled Northern Light's-Arctic-Antarctic Voyage. This presentation chronicled the highlights of Deborah Shapiro, and Rolf Bjelke as they sailed their 40 foot steel ketch past Svalbard, to the northerly most latitude ever reached in a private sailing craft. They then turned south to Greenland, through the Panama Canal to the Easter Island, Pitcairn Island, Chilean Patagonia, to Cape Horn, then on to Antarctica, crossing the Antarctic Circle, north of Adelaide Island.

The journey took 110 days, and they were met by the harshest of weather, below freezing temperatures, and mental and physical exhaustion. This was an incredible journey, and an incredible 90 minute presentation.

A LIVING DREAM

A dream
In the shadows of the mind
A vision-Released from reality-pledged to an everlasting goal!
Only far enough to find-

Delightful, pleasing-at times,
Dreary, Gloomy-It haults,
for it is the game of patience
progressively-It inclines-

Abstract — Never too clear;
-Notable for excellence
Too Precious to Tear,
Special to be mine —

Through the years we held on Beautiful memories passed us by-
Dredged the light of the grief
-Step by step-we climb —

How quick time flies-Here we are-you and I!
Life's promised road-
Has captured our weary eyes---

How wonderful we perceive
this opportunity we uphold
Awaiting this glorious day
A moment-affectedly refined.

Allowed a cherichable dream
To capture reality's joy
Heighten our self-esteem
Leave the struggle behind.

Rise! U. Mass. Rise!
Throw your hats up to the skies!
Be proud of what you are,
Spring up-you fruitful vines —

Widen the doors of tomorrow
Predate future events
Be the symbol of recognition
A seed-never confined

Be it, Be all
Conjure magical spells
Reach high-to not fall,
And never cross a street-Blind!

A LIVING DREAM

Nayla Maroun is a 23 year old senior, Marketing major. She is originally from Lebanon, and currently lives with her family in Roslindale.

Nayla's hobbies are aerobics, nautilus, and weight-lifting, and she formerly taught sailing at U. Mass.

In the future, Nayla would like to combine poetry with advertising, and possibly begin writing for Hallmark. She has already begun submission to some small newspapers, and hopes to move on to bigger and better things by means of her poetry.

Nayla is proud to be graduating from U. Mass., and has contributed much to the school. Her poem, "A Living Dream", exemplifies this pride, and was inspired by her thoughts on graduation.

Does this strike you as unusual.

Let's share a moment

Wa'na meet my friend

I don't believe it!

Do you see what I mean.

My face is frozen for this picture

So's your old man!

We're having a good time!

I think we're going to be famous!

EVENTS

OLDER STUDENTS

Among the many attributes of U. Mass., Boston, is the fact that it has such a wide array of students, from all walks of life. Many of these students break away from the typical stereotype of "college student". One such group is portrayed in this article by Judy Grader and her classmates. The students that Judy writes about deserve much credit. They have families, jobs, and all the responsibilities that go with them, in addition to taking classes here at U. Mass. We would like to take this time to thank all of these students for all that they contribute to U. Mass.

Unfortunately, we, as "older students", could not and did not fully appreciate the "college life" as most freshmen know it. Because we come from a totally different point of reference, full time families and full time responsibilities, we could not participate in university activities. The greatest loss of all was our inability to share a wealth of life experience with students embarking on the journey of life.

Perhaps the greatest joy was the friends that we made while struggling to get through the "next paper". These bonds are not those that will be easily broken. There are too many experiences that bind us tightly together. The ingredients are a combination of love, laughter, tears, joy, and an overwhelming sense of accomplishment.

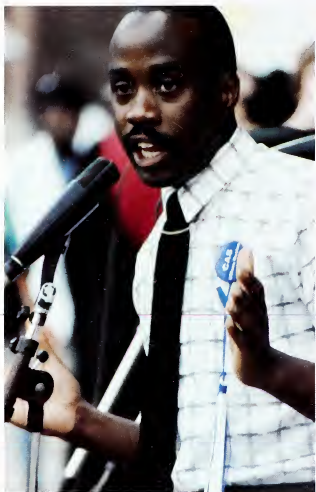

Our wish for the classes that succeed is to keep a sense of humor, realize that there is a light at the end of the tunnel, and cherish the friends and the memories that you have accumulated through your life as a college student.

CAMPUS LIFE

THE BLACK STUDENT CENTER

Kwanzaa is a celebration put on by the Black Student Center, honoring African heritage. Kwanzaa celebrates the first harvest in parts of Africa, and this is a time to establish personal goals and principles. Also, it is a time to recommit to responsibilities within the Black community.

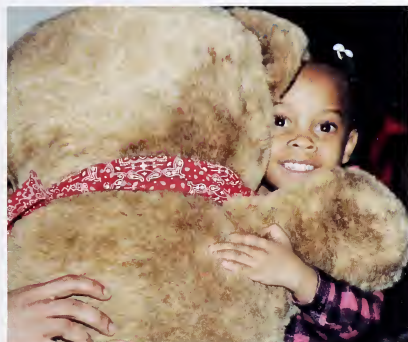

Kwanzaa begins on December 26, and lasts for 7 days, and for each day there is one principle—unity, self determination, collective work and responsibility, cooperative economics, purpose, creativity, and faith. On each day, one candle is lit in honor of the principle it represents.

Kwanzaa is a holiday which should be celebrated by all Black people. It is a time to uphold African principles, and it is important to live by these principles throughout the year.

PRESIDENT

DAVID C. KNAPP

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

To the Class of 1988:

Congratulations to the Class of '88.

This year marks the 125th Anniversary of the founding of the University of Massachusetts. From our rural, agricultural roots in the Connecticut Valley, we have evolved into a comprehensive university that spans the Commonwealth and touches every part of the globe.

You are the legacy of that history; you represent the strength and power of this institution. Your achievement is the realization of our fundamental mission: to bring the land-grant tradition of teaching, service, and research to all parts of the Commonwealth.

In the years ahead you will fill positions of influence and responsibility in the arts and education, industry and government, science and health. You will raise families and care for those less fortunate. You will participate in public affairs at all levels. Your achievements in these endeavors will be the ultimate test of our abilities as teachers and scholars. I am confident that you will meet your own and the University's highest expectations.

David C. Knapp
President

CHANCELLOR

ROBERT A. CORRIGAN

CHANCELLOR'S ADDRESS

It is a pleasure to congratulate the senior class on your individual and collective achievements and to wish you all the best as you graduate. You have a great deal to be proud of in what you have accomplished at the University and much to look forward to as you move on to new challenges. Many of you are "non-traditional", in the sense that you are older and more experienced professionally than the average college graduate, but there is nothing untraditional about your degree and the opportunities for learning that it will provide you. You join a distinguished fellowship of students with University baccalaureates and can create your future with confidence and competence. I have seen our graduates take increasingly more important roles in the government, industry, and business of Massachusetts, New England, and our nation. I know that you will be joining them in these exciting and important careers.

Over the past nine years I have been honored to lead the Boston Campus of the University of Massachusetts. During that time I have seen UMass/Boston grow to maturity as an institution, adding new academic programs, expanding opportunities for graduate study and offering our first Ph.D. programs in Environmental Sciences and Clinical Psychology. We have developed new Center and public service and research Institutes, and attracted a richly diverse and talented faculty and student body. We have diverse and talented faculty and student body. We have built our research capacity with major external grants and attracted substantial support for scholarship aid. We have been recognized in the national media as an outstanding institution. Among the higher education community we are well respected for our achievement in providing both access and excellence to a quality education. UMass/Boston is now "perceived" as a first rate institution, something that it has been in fact for many years - as you have discovered over the course of your stay here.

I am proud of what has been accomplished by so many dedicated people at the University, and also realistic about the work that is still to be done. We need more space for our programs and our students. We need a student center, and we must make substantial renovations at the Downtown Campus. We need greater resources for student support, for teaching and research assistantships and for the library services critical for programs. What has been done well here at UMass/Boston, must be both sustained and strengthened. Your continued advocacy for your alma mater will play a major role in helping it accomplish these goals in the future. Many of you will, we hope, return to us in the future for continued study at the graduate level. You will have the opportunity to both participate in the ongoing growth and development of your University and reap the benefits of new accomplishments.

We are all leaving the University in some way, I as Chancellor, you as students. But I hope that you will continue, as I will, to be ambassadors of good will for UMass/Boston. My ties with the University will be strong, as I hope yours will be.

My best wishes to each of you. The Class of 1988 continues a growing tradition of excellence. I salute you, and again offer my congratulations.

ORGANIZATIONS

DANCE THEATRE

The UMass/Boston Dance Theater is a performing arts organization. We have represented UMass/Boston at the Museum of Fine Arts, the Children's Museum, Boston City Hall and numerous public schools. Our goal has been to promote the arts and physical education.

The Dance Theater is composed of UMass students of all dance levels. Membership is open to all students willing to learn and work hard attending group rehearsals and rehearsing on their own. Ultimately, these long hours of work lead to well attended professional quality dance concerts. It is during these performances that the dancers have the pleasure of presenting the results of their work.

In addition to the general student members, the club is comprised of a president, Jim Spellman; a vice president/treasurer, Ellen Gyftopoulos; a student concert committee; and a faculty advisor, Dr. Margaret Pappalardo. It is this group that does the production work such as the hiring of outside choreographers and others who are needed to put on a professional quality production. Jim Spellman has led the club for the past four years, and has worked very hard to help bring the quality of the club to where it is today.

This year the Dance Theater has produced two major concerts. On December 9, 1987, it presented the premier "Holiday Surprise" at the CPCS campus. This production was choreographed and directed by Ellen Gyftopoulos. It was a take off of the Nutcracker, and was performed mainly for the UMass Day Care Center children. Much thanks must be given to Irene Ryan from Student Activities at the CPCS who coordinated the production, and to Fritz, without whom the show could not have gone on.

The second major production will be held on May 13 and 14, 1988. This will be the UMass spring concert "Dance Designs" which will be performed in the Wheatley Auditorium at the Harbor Campus.

In closing, the Dance Theater would like to thank the following people who have assisted in the development of the club in the past four years: Dr. Margaret Pappalardo, Rebecca Garnett, Anita Havel, Marge Hauprich-Wilson, Diane Fabiano, Tom Mulloy, Drew Francis and the lighting design students, Irene Ryan, Student Activities, the Physical Education Department, and the whole UMB community. Dance and be free.

PROGRAM BOARD

The 1987-88 school year marked the first year that the U Mass/Boston Program Board functioned separately rather than as part of Student Senate. Through the hard work of it's members, The Program Board sponsored many of this year's campus activities. A few of these events were the ticket series, bleacher creatures, comedy series, dance series, Cafe Jazz series; Thompson's Island, Senior Splash, Harbor Cruise, the film series, and the Spring Extravaganza.

The Program Board members each handled different events, and all worked very hard. Diane Fabiano was in charge of social events, and the ticket series. Among the many social events, was the Harbor Cruise, Senior Splash, and the Spring Extravaganza. The ticket series offered UMass students tickets to various productions, such as Les Miserables, at discount prices.

Michelle Piccardo was the Performing Arts Coordinator. Michelle was, among other things, responsible for the Cafe Jazz Series.

Susan Wheeler was coordinator of the UMass Lecture Series. Susan was responsible for such lectures as Bella Abzug, prominent female politician, active in issues such as civil rights, and world peace.

Jim Spellman was the Program Board CPCS liasion. Jim handled programs between CPCS, and UMass Boston Harbor Campus.

Mary-Lisa Fox was the coordinator of the Film Series, and the Alternative Film Series. This program sponsored various films made available to UMass students.

The Program Board's first year was a huge success, as is evident by the long list of activities they sponsored. They held a diversity of activities, that were of interest to everyone. They all deserve congratulations for a difficult job superbly done!!

Working for the Mass Media is more than a student activity. It is a rewarding way to get behind in your school work. Producing a paper every week for 32 weeks while going to school and working ain't no good life but it's our life. To top it off, we tried to churn out something that people would want to read, and we succeeded at that from time to time.

On the inside the Mass Media is a restful and friendly place to work, not unlike the French revolution. We will long remember those happy encounters between feature editor and production editor on Tuesday afternoon, relaxing Monday afternoons (copy's favorite day) and of course the ripping good times we had in editorial board meetings. Good luck to Gigi and her little one, the college job guide, comrade Tran, and of course Ack and his scurvy crew of galleywaxers.

Any future correspondence to the 1987-88 Mass Media should be directed to the 1987-88 Mass Media Official Spokesman Scott Stanley. Good Luck finding him.

Arts and Feature Editor Gigi Picillo and Associate Copy Editor Teresa Soares share a laugh over a late breaking movie review.

Sports Editor John "Scoop" Kupris gathers a little sustenance before a grueling morning of Sports Shorts writing.

Uncharacteristically calm Mass Media Editorial Board meeting. Platt's commitment to anarchoistic-Jeffersonian-Democracy resulted in many rousous and sometimes violent board meetings.

SAMUEL ADAMS SOCIETY

The Samuel Adams Society is an organization of students, at UMass/Boston, interested in individual freedom in the scholastic community.

The Society was formed as a response to the apparent lopsidedness of politically active clubs on campus.

Samuel Adams was chosen as the Society's patriarch because the founders felt that the "Incendiary of the American Revolution" is a perfect example, of a fighter for freedom, who used the mind as well as appropriate tactics to thwart tyranny.

The UMass Bostonian is published by the Society. The aim of The Bostonian is to provide a forum of relevant issues and opinions. The society has drawn contributors from all parts of the UMB campus, including alumni.

Analyses of such topics as Presidential Candidates' forums, the October Stock Market fall, and the situation in Afghanistan have highlighted this year's issues. The Bostonian has editorialized: for the rights of non-smokers on campus, for the writing proficiency exam, against abuses at the free speech wall, and, before all others, against the sale of fraudulent "ripoff" goods on campus.

ROBERT H. QUINN

The Robert H. Quinn Administration Building houses the senior administrative offices of UMass/Boston. Also in the Quinn Building are central administration offices such as Personnel, Accounting, Purchasing, Institutional Research and Planning, and the Dean of Graduate Studies and Research.

The Quinn Building was completed in 1973, and was part of the original construction of UMass. On April 10, 1988, it was dedicated to Robert H. Quinn, to whom UMass is deeply indebted to for all that he has contributed, both to the school, and to the Commonwealth.
